

Public Notice

RESPONDENT: PAUL MCINTOSH

DATE: DECEMBER 15, 2025

COMPLAINT: #2021-10

In August 2021, Forests Professionals BC received a complaint from a BC Timber Sales (BCTS) woodland manager against Paul McIntosh, who was registered with Forest Professionals BC at that time as a Registered Professional Forester (RPF), relating to services previously provided by Mr. McIntosh in or about 2019 as a subcontractor for a forest consulting firm involving supervision of cutblock layout and road design.

After receipt of that complaint, but before Mr. McIntosh was notified of the complaint, Mr. McIntosh voluntarily converted his registration with Forest Professionals BC to retired registrant status, effective December 1, 2021. Subsequently, while the investigation of the complaint was still ongoing, Mr. McIntosh voluntarily chose not to renew his retired registration before it expired on November 30, 2022, and his retired registration was formally cancelled effective January 31, 2023.

The investigation considered allegations that:

- Mr. McIntosh was the professional responsible for the road design “Coordinating Member” in accordance with the Guidelines for Professional Services in the Forest Sector – Forest Roads.
- Mr. McIntosh professionally signed and sealed his professional work and submitted it to BCTS, where it was accepted.
- The Timber Sale Licence required that the road be constructed as designed.
- The sub-contractor the Licensee hired to construct the road abandoned construction of the double switchback due to safety concerns.
- An independent engineering review, commissioned by BCTS, determined the road was not safe or feasible to build as designed and was potentially unsafe for hauling operations.
- Mr. McIntosh did not visit the site of the double switchback in the field, and did not include sufficient details for the road builder on the materials and construction techniques required to construct the road.

Mr. McIntosh has not admitted to the foregoing allegations or to having breached any competence, ethical, or professional conduct standards of Forest Professionals BC, and no final determination has been made regarding any matter alleged against Mr. McIntosh in this complaint.

However, as a result of Mr. McIntosh's change to retired registrant status and the subsequent cancellation of his retired registration status, Mr. McIntosh is no longer authorized to practise as a Registered Professional Forester (RPF) or to provide any services constituting the reserved practice of professional forestry under the Professional Governance Act and the Forest Professionals Regulation.

In these circumstances, the Forest Professionals BC Board has directed the issuance of this public notice, at the request of Forest Professionals BC's Investigation Committee, to resolve the complaint against Mr. McIntosh in the public interest.
